

Market commentary: The VN-INDEX sank to one-month low on coronavirus fears

The VN-INDEX fell to the lowest level in one month as evidence of a second coronavirus wave fuelled the selling pressure on large caps. Following the sharp fall of the U.S. stock index futures amid fresh coronavirus outbreaks in several U.S. states and Beijing, China's capital, the VN-INDEX kicked off cautiously and quickly lost ground. Real Estate large caps suffered from strong selling pressure, with VHM (-6.7%) and VIC (-3.1%) wiping 7.5pts off the index. Financials large caps also plunged, with VCB and BID falling 4.2% and 6.1%, respectively. Consumer Staples large caps joined the fall, including VNM (-5.1%), SAB (-3.5%) and MSN (-3.6%). On the other hand, several stocks skirted the selling wave and closed higher, led by GVR (+2.1%), STB (+2.1%) and HDB (+1.5%). As a result, the VN-INDEX ended down 3.6% at 832.5pts, the lowest level since 15 May when it closed at 827.0pts, and the HNX-INDEX also dropped to 113.8pts (-2.6%).

All sectors fell today, led by Financials (-4.2%), Consumer Staples (-4.1%) and Real Estate (-3.9%). Top index movers included GVR (+2.1%), STB (+2.1%), HDB (+1.5%), EIB (+1.7%) and NVL (+0.6%). Top index laggards consisted of VHM (-6.7%), VCB (-4.2%), BID (-6.1%), VNM (-5.1%) and VIC (-3.1%). Top three major put-through transactions were VHM with 201.3m shares (VND15,099.5bn), NVL with 12.7m shares (VND694.9bn) and MSN with 1.5m shares (VND88.0bn).

Foreigners net bought on HOSE to the amount of VND14,854.1bn, while net sold on HNX to the amount of VND5.1bn. They mainly bought VHM (VND15,125.9bn), VNM (VND61.7bn) and CTG (VND52.8bn); and mainly sold VNM (VND142.5bn), VCB (VND65.0bn) and VHM (VND52.0bn).

Market News

Oil falls for a third day with second-wave virus risks in focus. Oil kept falling after its first weekly drop since late April as a fresh coronavirus outbreak in China and increases in cases elsewhere added to concern a second wave of infections will threaten a nascent economic recovery. Futures in New York fell below US$35 a barrel after losing 8.3% last week. Beijing closed the city's largest fruit and vegetable supply center and locked down nearby housing districts over the weekend after dozens of people associated with the market tested positive for the virus. Florida, meanwhile, is among some U.S. states that are still seeing sharp increases in cases. The supply response to the virus continued, with Baker Hughes data showing active drilling rigs across the U.S. falling for a 13th week to the lowest in more than a decade. On the demand side, Chinese official figures showed refinery runs in Asia's largest economy rose last month on a year-on-year basis. OPEC and its allies will review the state of the market this week at an online meeting of the group's technical committee on Wednesday. (Bloomberg)

EVFTA's openness poses challenges for Vietnamese retailers. Even as the European Union-Vietnam Free Trade Agreement (EVFTA), which will take effect from August 1, 2020, promises to bring about tremendous opportunities for businesses and consumers of both sides. Vietnamese retailers and distributors are apprehensive that its openness may lead to them losing their home advantage and facing more competition from EU companies. Data from the Ministry of Industry and Trade revealed that Vietnam exported goods worth US$41.5bn to the EU and spent US$14.9bn on imports from the union in 2019, earning a trade surplus of US$26.6bn. The Ministry of Planning and Investment estimated that the EVFTA could boost Vietnam's imports from the EU by 33.1% by 2025 and 36.7% by 2030. Although products made in Vietnam still account for more than 60% of goods currently sold at supermarkets, the Vietnamese retail market is seeing fierce competition between local giants like Saigon Co.op, VinCommerce, Bach Hoa Xanh and Satra and their international rivals such as Lotte, Big C, and Circle K. This is only expected to get more intense once the country opens its doors wider to EU businesses. "The EVFTA will boost high-quality investments from the EU and its partners to Vietnam, accelerating the restructuring and renovation of the country's retail sector," the Domestic Market Department under the Ministry of Industry and Trade said in a statement, adding that Vietnamese retailers that fail to adapt to the fast-changing business environment would find it tough to survive. Challenges that Vietnamese businesses, especially small and medium-sized retailers and distributors, would face are increasing competition, underdeveloped e-commerce infrastructure and management and food safety and hygiene. With lower competitiveness compared to EU enterprises, they stand to be taken over or lose their market share. The Ministry of Industry and Trade noted that deadlines for realizing commitments at the EVFTA would also be challenging for Vietnam. For other free trade agreements, the participating parties are required to realize their commitments in 10 years. However, the EVFTA requires Vietnam to realize its commitments in five to seven years, with some provisions expected to be executed right after the EVFTA comes into effect or within two or three years. According to the Domestic Market Department, Vietnamese products, especially farm produce, livestock products and seafood, will have to compete with cheap but quality goods from the EU in the domestic market. (Vietnamnet.vn)
