Oil edges lower after report signals expanding U.S. stockpiles

Oil edged lower in New York after an industry report signaled another increase in U.S. crude stockpiles, and as the spread of the coronavirus continued to cloud the prospects for an economic recovery. Futures slipped to trade near US$40 a barrel, but were still near a three-month high reached on Monday. The American Petroleum Institute reported crude inventories climbed by 1.75m barrels last week, according to people familiar, which would be a third weekly gain if confirmed by government data Wednesday. Meanwhile, Anthony Fauci, the top U.S. infectious-disease expert, told Congress he was seeing a “disturbing surge” in new cases. The prompt timespread for London’s Brent crude flipped back to contango on Tuesday -- a market structure where future contracts are more expensive than immediate prices -- after three days in backwardation. (Bloomberg)

Vietnamese pork prices stay high despite imports

Although live pigs have been imported under the Vietnamese government’s order in an attempt to soothe the current hike in pork prices, domestic prices remain high, triggering a need for local authorities to apply more sturdy solutions. The first 500 live pigs weighing 90-130 kilogrammes were imported last week into Vietnam from Thailand by Thanh Do Nghe An Co., Ltd. through Lao Bao Border Gate of the central province of Quang Tri. “After five days of quarantine, these pigs will be supplied to slaughterhouses. Depending on the local market demand, we can import 3,000-5,000 pigs per day and will stop when the market price stabilises. We hope to contribute to decreasing the current pork prices with these measures,” Nguyen Van Thanh, director of Thanh Do Nghe An, told VIR. According to Thanh, Thailand is not affected by African swine fever (ASF), and its market of live pigs is huge, making it possible for Thanh’s company to import up to 10,000 pigs per day. The Department of Animal Health under the Ministry of Agricultural and Rural Development (MARD) stated that Thanh Do Nghe An is one of eight companies in Vietnam that meet all requirements to import live pigs. Some businessmen said that, currently, the amount of imported pigs is still quite large, reaching 5,000-6,000 per day. Despite this abundant supply, pork prices remain high on the market, triple the current expense of feeding. Meanwhile, Vu Anh Tuan, deputy director of Thai-backed C.P. Vietnam Corporation, said that the government should let the pork price follow the market mechanism. “Besides this, domestic feeding facilities should pay attention to sanitary and epidemiological issues to be able to maintain and increase the number of pigs and ultimately meet the market demand,” Tuan said. According to the MARD, in the first five months of 2020, Vietnam imported about 70,000 tonnes of pork, up over 300% on-year. Moreover, over 8,000 live pigs were also imported. By May, Vietnam had about 25m pigs, accounting for 80% of the total pigs before ASF occurred, and is expected to meet the local demand by the end of the third quarter. (vir.com.vn)
