

Market commentary: The VN-INDEX fell from one-week high on Aviation stocks' fall

The VN-INDEX dropped 0.2% as Aviation stocks retreated, while the HNX-INDEX ended a six-day winning streak and fell 1.2%. The U.S. stock market fell sharply the previous night as anxiety about coronavirus returned, with the Dow Jones Average Index declining 3.6%. In Vietnam, the VN-INDEX opened cautiously and quickly dipped below the reference level as most large caps started off in the red. The index further dropped to its intraday low of 934.5pts (-1.2%) before strongly recovering in the afternoon session. SAB lost 3.8% to become the largest laggard, alone wiping 1.2pts off the index. Moreover, Aviation large caps such as VJC and HVN fell significantly by 2.0% and 3.3%, respectively. On the positive side, some market pillars from Financials sector displayed impressive performance, including VCB (+1.7%) and BID (+0.4%). MSN from Food & Beverage sector even hit the ceiling price with huge demand surplus, followed by BHN (+1.3%). These movers helped narrow the VN-INDEX's early losses. Finally, the VN-INDEX lost only 0.2% to close at 891.4pts, and the HNX-INDEX also slumped 1.2% to end at 113.7pts, having snapped a six-day winning streak that started on 27 Feb.

Health Care (+0.7%) and Financials (+0.3%) rose while Consumer Discretionary (-1.3%), Industrials (-1.1%) and Energy (-1.1%) dropped. Top index movers included VCB (+1.7%), MSN (+6.9%), BID (+0.4%), DXG (+6.6%) and SCS (+5.1%). Top index laggards consisted of SAB (-3.8%), VIC (-0.6%), VJC (-2.0%), CTG (-1.3%) and HVN (-3.3%). Top three major put-through transactions were TCB with 6.3m shares (VND141.2bn), VPB with 3.8m shares (VND112.0bn) and GEX with 6.4m shares (VND109.1bn).

Foreigners net sold on HOSE to the amount of VND21.6bn, and also net sold on HNX to the amount of VND6.3bn. They mainly bought VPB (VND112.0bn), VNM (VND72.0bn) and MSN (VND36.1bn); and mainly sold VPB (VND112.0bn), VNM (VND62.2bn) and VIC (VND44.8bn).

Market News

Oil extends collapse below US$50 with Russia and OPEC squaring off. Oil extended its slide from the lowest close in more than two years as investors wait for a Russian response to OPEC's plan for deeper and longer cuts to offset the demand destruction caused by the coronavirus. Brent closed below US$50 for the first time since mid-2017 on Thursday after OPEC ministers tried to force Russia into accepting a proposal for a supply cut of 1.5m barrels a day through to year-end. Cartel members warned that a failure to join may lead to the coalition abandoning curbs altogether. OPEC Secretary-General Mohammad Barkindo struck a more conciliatory tone and said there is no reason to doubt Russia's commitment to the alliance. (Bloomberg)

Coal to remain key in Vietnam's power expansion - Fitch Solutions. Coal remains the most practical option in the near-term to stimulate affordable electricity generation growth at the pace and scale needed by the country, said Fitch Solutions. Vietnam's power expansion is predicted to continue being largely driven by coal despite increasing pressures on the fuel source of late, Fitch Solution said in a report. The National Steering Committee for Power Development has recommended scaling the share of coal down for the upcoming Power Development Plan (PDP) VIII, eliminating nearly 15GW of planned coal projects and for coal to account only 37% of Vietnam's electricity by 2025, due to slow progress and environmental opposition to in some coal projects. According to Fitch, the government initially had a coal capacity target of 106 gigawatts (GW) by 2025, and for an additional 55GW of coal capacity from 2017 to 2030. There is yet to be a decision made on capacity targets, and it is expected that the government is likely to retain an ongoing commitment to coal at present. Fitch Solutions referred to its key project database that there are more than 17GW of coal power plants that are already under construction, and almost another 29GW under pre-construction stages. "It is unclear how the government will halt the development of these projects that are already under construction without incurring significant compensation costs," it said. Furthermore, Vietnam is facing looming threats of power shortages over the coming years, given an expected surge in power demand, and has in fact been trying to fast-track the development of some of these projects since 2019. It is clear that the government is prioritizing the development of the power sector in general to support the country's strong economic growth. Meanwhile, coal remains the most practical option in the near-term to stimulate affordable electricity generation growth at the pace and scale needed by the country, given its affordability, accessibility and reliability, stressed Fitch. A key supportive factor for continued coal-fired power growth is the continued access to financing from China and South Korea. While a shifting international financing environment for coal amid environmental concerns possess some downside risks, it is expected that alternative financing sources, particularly from China, will likely remain forthcoming. Fitch's report noted that the 1,200MW Vung Ang 2 and 1,980MW Vinh Tan 3 coal-fired power plants have come under the spotlight following OCBC Bank, Standard Chartered Bank and HSBC Bank recent announcements to withdraw financing from the plants. Japan, a key financing source in the region, is also looking towards reviewing their coal financing and export policies by end of June 2020. That said, most Chinese and South Korean banks, which form a substantial majority to Vietnam's coal financing, have not flagged any commitments to exit coal yet. Crucially, these countries aim to generate external demand for coal power equipment through the use of their respective export credit agencies, amid a decline in domestic coal power markets. Fitch stressed that many banks with effective coal bans also have financing loopholes and exemptions, which unlock funding for certain projects in light of its importance to economic development. As such, the extent and scope of Japan's coal financing review also remains uncertain at present, said Fitch. (Vietnamnet.vn)
