

Market commentary: The VN-INDEX fell to 30-month low on U.S. travel ban concerns

The VN-INDEX fell to the lowest level since Aug 2017 amid concerns over the U.S. imposition of travel ban from Europe. The Dow Jones Industrials Average dropped 5.9% the previous night to close in bear-market territory after the United States banned travel from Europe to prevent the coronavirus spread. Similarly, the VN-INDEX plummeted right after the opening bell, with most stocks starting off in the red. Specifically, Financials became the worst performing sector, with VCB (-6.9%) and BID (-7.0%) hitting the floor price and together wiping 8.9pts off the index. GAS and PLX from Oil & Gas sectors also landed at floor price as investors were concerned about the negative impact of low crude oil prices to their business. Moreover, Real Estate large caps also slumped and further exacerbated the existing bearish sentiment, including VIC (-5.4%) and VHM (-5.9%). Only several stocks managed to close up, including CAV (+5.5%), YEG (+6.9%) and QCG (+7.0%). At the end of the trading session, the VN-INDEX fell 5.2% to 769.3pts, the lowest level since 23 Aug 2017 when it closed at 766.0pts, and the HNX-INDEX fell 3.4% to 101.9pts.

All sectors dropped today, including Energy (-6.8%), Financials (-6.5%) and Consumer Discretionary (-6.0%). Top index movers included CAV (+5.5%), YEG (+6.9%), QCG (+7.0%), VCF (+1.5%) and LDG (+5.0%). Top index laggards consisted of VCB (-6.9%), VIC (-5.4%), VHM (-5.9%), BID (-7.0%) and GAS (-6.9%). Top three major put-through transactions were VBB with 8.1 million shares (VND 129.8bn), GAB with 0.9 million shares (VND 129.5bn), VNM with 0.7 million shares (VND 69.8bn).

Russian oil producers are ready to survive flood of Saudi crude. A flood of discounted Saudi crude is heading for Europe, but Russia might just have the only producers in the world equipped to compete with it. With some of the world's lowest production costs, a flexible tax system and a free-floating ruble, Russian companies can keep pumping, even in an extremely bearish price scenario, analysts from Bank of America Corp. to Raiffeisenbank say. "Russian companies can ensure sustainable production until oil hits US$15 to US$20 per barrel," Karen Kostanian, BofA's Moscow-based oil and gas analyst, said. Saudi Arabia has escalated a battle for industry dominance after the collapse of the OPEC+ alliance last week. The kingdom has slashed prices and announced a massive production increase. Russia's Energy Minister Alexander Novak said his country's industry will remain competitive "at any forecast price level. (Bloomberg)

Vietnam to reduce dependence on coal. Vietnam will reduce the total capacity of coal-fired thermal power plants from 2020 until 2030, according to the National Steering Committee for Electricity Development. The reduction is mainly due to some thermal power projects delaying their development, while some localities have not agreed to allow the development of thermal power projects. The capacity will be cut by 6,000 megawatt (MW) to 20,000 MW in 2020 compared to the revised Master Power Development Plan VII (PDP VII). It will be reduced by 8,760 MW in 2025 and by 6,340 MW in 2030. Meanwhile, the total capacity of solar power is expected to grow to 14,450 MW in 2025 and 20,050 MW in 2030, according to the steering committee. The total capacity of wind power is estimated to increase to 6,030 MW in 2025 and 10,090 MW in 2030. The total electricity output of wind and solar power plants will reach 12 billion kWh in 2020, three times higher than the capacity in the Renewable Energy Development Strategy. The total output will reach 36 billion kWh by 2025 and 55 billion kWh by 2030, an increase of 2.6 times and 4 billion kWh, respectively, compared to the Renewable Energy Development Strategy. By 2030, the capacity of new power plants using liquefied natural gas (LNG) will be 12,750 MW, excluding old power plants converted to use LNG. Of which, 6,000 MW are under the PDP VII, including power plants: Nhon Trach 3 and 4 (capacity of 1,500 MW) and Son My 1 and 2 (4,500 MW). The steering committee said besides LNG power plant development in the south, Vietnam would need power plants using LNG in the north and the centre to replace Hai Phong 3 and Vung Ang 3 coal-fired thermal power plants. In addition, power plants in the Phu My, Ba Ria and Hiep Phuoc power centres would gradually switch to using LNG from 2021 due to the exhausted natural gas in the southeast region. Those power plants would have a total capacity of 4,200 MW in 2030. The steering committee also said Vietnam would import 2,500 MW and 2,400 MW of electricity from Laos in the 2021-25 period and in the 2026-30 period, respectively. The imports should be put under the revised PDP VII. (Vietnamnet.vn)
