

Market commentary: The VN-INDEX made biggest jump in nearly 11 years

The VN-INDEX rose 4.7%, the highest daily increase since Jul 2009, with strong support from Real Estate and Financials large caps. The Dow Jones Industrials Average had a boisterous trading day yesterday when it rallied 11.4%, the biggest since 1933. In Vietnam, the VN-INDEX began its morning session in an optimistic theme, with few blue chips quickly hitting their ceiling price. Specifically, Real Estate large caps such as VIC (+7.0%) and VHM (+6.9%) landed at their highest price permitted by market regulators, and together added 8.5pts to the index. Strong support also came from the Financials sector, led by VCB (+6.9%), CTG (+6.8%) and BID (+5.1%). On the down side, several stocks falling under strong selling pressure included SBT that dropped 6.7% to VND11,900, followed by BHN (-5.5%) and HNG (-1.6%). However, the laggards were far surpassed by the gaining blue chips. At the end of the session, the VN-INDEX jumped 4.7%, on par with the pace last seen on 24 Jul 2009, to land at 690.3pts, and the HNX-INDEX also displayed similar patterns and ended up at 100.1pts (+3.2%).

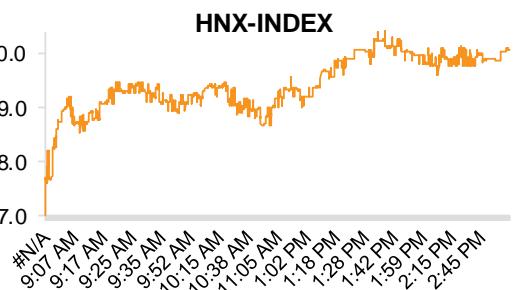

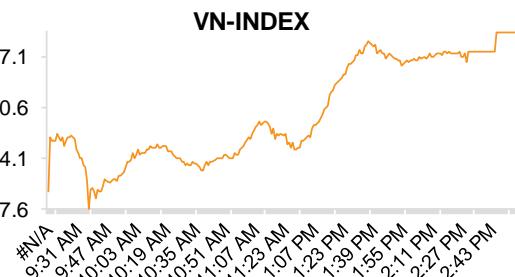

All sectors rose today including Energy (+6.5%), Real Estate (+5.8%), Utilities (5.4%). Top index movers included VIC (+7.0%), VCB (+6.9%), VHM (+6.9%), VNM (+6.9%) and GAS (+6.9%). Top index laggards consisted of BHN (-5.5%), SBT (-6.7%), HNG (-1.6%), QCG (-6.9%) and PGD (-6.8%). Top three major put-through transactions were MSN with 10.2m shares (VND 502.5bn), VIC with 4.6m shares (VND 309.7bn) and GAB with 1.4m shares (VND 185.8bn).

Foreigners net sold on HOSE to the amount of VND325.1bn, and also net sold on HNX to the amount of VND21.8bn. They mainly bought VNM (VND182.08bn), VIC (VND90.24bn) and POW (VND36.68bn); and mainly sold VNM (VND144.1bn), MSN (VND96.18bn) and VIC (VND84.89bn).

Market News

Oil rides U.S. stimulus rally while price war rages unabated. Oil rode a rally driven by optimism over U.S. stimulus spending into a third day, but a vicious price war that shows no signs of abating continued to hang over the market. Futures in New York extended their gain this week to more than 10% after House Speaker Nancy Pelosi signaled Congress will reach a deal on a massive spending bill, a day after the Federal Reserve unveiled a sweeping set of economic measures. Those efforts spurred dramatic gains in stocks, with the S&P 500 Index having its best session since 2008. The specter of collapsing demand and a rapidly expanding glut of oil make a sustained recovery in prices unlikely, however. Reflecting those worries, global benchmark Brent crude's six-month timespread sank into the deepest. (Bloomberg)

Ford temporarily suspends production in Vietnam due to COVID-19. Ford Motor Company has announced it will temporarily cease production at its assembly plant in Vietnam in response to the growing impact of the novel coronavirus pandemic. A Ford Vietnam representative said the suspension of production will begin on March 26 and last for several weeks, depending on the disease developments, the government's restrictions, suppliers' operations, customer demand, as well as the assembly plant's inventory. Ford Vietnam committed to standing shoulder to shoulder with its agents to ensure the safety of its staff and customers, while maintaining sales and customer care services as normal. Alongside Vietnam, Ford Motor Company has also decided to temporarily suspend its vehicle and engine production at its International Markets Group (IMG) manufacturing sites in other markets, including India, Thailand and South Africa. "The health and safety of our employees, dealers, customers, partners and communities is our highest priority," said IMG President Mark Ovenden. "We are continuing to act in real time and taking added safety measures by temporarily halting production at our manufacturing sites in the international markets." Located in Hai Duong province, north of Vietnam, the Ford plant assembles major products such as EcoSport, Tourneo, Everest, Explorer, Transit or Ranger, which are very popular with customers.
