

Market commentary: The VN-INDEX lost 5.6pts as large caps fell under strong selling.

The VN-INDEX fell 0.6% due to strong selling, while the HNX-INDEX inched up 0.2%. The VN-INDEX started off the morning session in green as some large caps lent strong support. Specifically, BID rose significantly by 1.9% to VND42,900 and added 0.8pts to the index, followed by BHN (+3.8%) and PNJ (+0.8%). However, the index gradually lost steam towards the end of the session as selling pressure suddenly emerged and overwhelmed on many large caps. Notably, VCB became the largest laggard, losing 1.3% and alone wiping 1.3pts off the index. Other large caps from Consumer Staples sector also slumped and further exacerbated the bearish sentiment, including VNM (-1.6%) and SAB (-1.2%). As a result, the VN-INDEX dipped below the reference level to close at 1,013pts (-0.6%). On the contrary, the HNX-INDEX managed to maintain its upward momentum to land at 107.2pts (+0.2%) thanks to strong support from ACB (+1.2%).

Materials (-1.1%), Consumer Staples (-1.0%) and Consumer Discretionary (-1.0%) dropped while only Health Care (+0.1%) rose. Top index movers included BID (+1.9%), BHN (+3.8%), TCH (+2.7%), PC1 (+5.2%) and PNJ (+0.8%). Top index laggards consisted of VCB (-1.3%), VNM (-1.6%), VHM (-0.7%), SAB (-1.2%) and TCB (-1.6%). Top three major put-through transactions were GTN with 9.3m shares (VND179.7bn), GEX with 6.9m shares (VND144.1bn) and TBD with 1.0m shares (VND115.1bn).

Oil Falls for a Third Day After Trump Damps Trade-Deal Optimism. Oil fell for a third day as President Donald Trump failed to provide any fresh details on trade negotiations with China, disappointing investors who had been hoping for some progress toward a limited deal. Futures dropped as much as 0.4% in New York after losing 0.8% over the previous two sessions. Phase one of a trade agreement could happen soon, but the U.S. would substantially raise tariffs if a deal can't be reached, Trump said in a speech to the Economic Club of New York. American crude inventories are forecast to have risen by 1.5mn barrels last week, according to a Bloomberg survey, adding to concerns over a looming supply glut. (Bloomberg)

Credit growth slows at Vietnam's state-owned banks. The credit growth rates of state-owned banks in Vietnam are decreasing, and a central bank source said the bank may consider giving some lending quotas from state-owned banks to smaller banks. Vietinbank has reported a 3.2% credit growth in the first nine months of the year, its lowest rate in many years, and also the lowest among Vietnam's top four state-owned banks. VietinBank has not raised its legal capital and stockholder equity, so credit cannot be developed strongly. The bank has had difficulties raising charter capital for a long time. It is impossible for it to sell more shares to foreign investors like other banks such as BIDV, Vietcombank and Agribank (the state's ownership ratio in VietinBank has decreased to below 65%). It also cannot issue shares to existing shareholders unless the state shareholder buys shares. If VietinBank could ensure a capital adequacy ratio, it would be able to have credit growth rates of 13-14% this year, or 9-10 more percentage points, equal to VND75-80tr. The figure is equal to the credit growth of four or five medium-level joint stock banks within a year. Agribank's credit growth rate in the first nine months of the year was also low, just a bit higher than the small growth rate in Q2. Agribank said if it cannot raise the charter capital, it won't be able to provide capital to businesses from mid-2020, because the capital adequacy ratio will not meet the requirements. Analysts say the low credit growth rates of VietinBank and Agribank, two of Vietnam's top four, will affect the growth of the entire banking system. According to the State Bank of Vietnam, the total outstanding loans to the national economy has hit VND7.850tr, and the figure may reach VND8,000tr by the end of this year, or US$338bn. Vietnam's GDP is US$255bn. If so, the ratio of credit to GDP would be 1.33, higher than the level recommended for developing countries and ASEAN (at 1.3). The State Bank will maintain a more reasonable credit growth rate, below the annual target of 14% for this year. So, it won't be a big surprise if the actual credit growth would reach 12% or 13% this year. Most commercial banks reported that the fifth-group debts, or the worst debts, have increased sharply from the same period last year, which has raised the ratio of bad debt on total outstanding loans. A source from the State Bank said the central bank was considering transferring the credit growth quotas from major banks, such as VietinBank and Agribank, to joint stock banks. (Vietnamnet.vn)
