

Market Commentary: VN-INDEX ended up 0.1% thanks to Financials large caps

The VN-INDEX gained 1.1pts to end at 944.4pts, an 8th-gaining session, thanks to support from Financials large caps despite strong selling in late trading. The Dow Jones index fell 1.4% on Monday's session as the global tally of COVID-19 cases surpassed the forty-million milestone. In Vietnam, the main index met a strong selling pressure after 7 consecutive gaining sessions, caused by profit-taking activities. The index plunged to its intraday low of 937.4pts (-0.7%). GAS became the biggest laggard, dropping 1.9% to end at VND72,600 and alone taking 0.8pts from the index's move. The laggard was followed by Consumer Staples' large caps including VNM (-1.4%), and SAB (-1.1%). However, in late trading, the rally of Financials and Materials large caps, including TCB (+3.9%), MBB (+2.5%), VPB (+1.4%), HDB (+2.2%), and HPG (+1.6%), lifted the index from its intraday low to the green territory. At the end of the session, the VN-INDEX edged up 0.1% to close at 944.4pts while the HNX-INDEX lost 0.4% to end at 140.3pts.

Materials (+1.1%), Financials (+0.7%), and Consumer Discretionary (+0.2%) rose, while Utilities (-1.2%), Energy (-0.4%), and Consumer Staples (-0.4%) lost ground today. Top index movers included TCB (+3.9%), MSN (+2.1%), HPG (+1.6%), MBB (+2.5%), and VPB (+1.4%). Top index laggards consisted of GAS (-1.9%), VNM (-1.4%), SAB (-1.1%), BVH (-2.7%), and LGC (-7.0%). Top three major put-through transactions were DIG with 28.3m shares (VND494.6bn), TPB with 3.3m shares (VND83.2bn), and FPT with 1.4m shares (VND78.6bn).

Foreigners net sold on HOSE to the amount of VND877.5bn, while net bought on HNX to the amount of VND6.1bn. They mainly bought HPG (VND86.0bn), FPT (VND78.6bn), and VCB (VND61.4bn); and mainly sold DIG (VND493.9bn), MSN (VND296.0bn), and VHM (VND119.6bn).

Oil slides with OPEC+ warning of precarious market outlook

Oil extended declines as OPEC+ warned of a precarious outlook for the market while a resurgent virus hits consumption. Saudi Arabia's Energy Minister Prince Abdulaziz bin Salman, speaking at the coalition's committee meeting on Monday, called on the group to be proactive in the face of uncertain demand. The comments are strengthening expectations that OPEC and its allies will delay plans to restore 2 million barrels of halted output at the start of next year. While demand from China is robust, prices are struggling to push higher as coronavirus cases rise and Libyan supplies recover after a lengthy halt. Meanwhile, more U.S. stimulus remains elusive as time draws short to reach an agreement on a bill that could pass by the election. (Bloomberg)

Science and technology keys to long-term economic growth

Vietnam must maintain its growth momentum in the next two decades in order to escape the middle-income trap by 2045 - a key objective set by the government's development vision for 2030 - and the only way to do so is to invest in the development of science and technology, said economists and policymakers. Dr Bui Quang Tuan, head of the Vietnam Institute of Economics, said only with scientific and technological innovations can the country create new economic drivers, to improve productivity and to add more value to its products, elements that are keys to maintaining rapid GDP growth. In recent years, the country has seen a shift from an agriculture-based to an industrialised economy with the growth of its processing and manufacturing industries. The Vietnamese workforce also saw one of the fastest productivity growth rates in the region. The country's labour productivity for 2019 was US$4,790bn, a 6.2% increase from the previous year. Vietnam, however, still trailed behind other ASEAN economies at 45.6% of Indonesia, 56.9% of the Philippines, 19.5% of Malaysia and just 7.6% of Singapore. "Science and technology is our only hope in raising labour productivity," Tuan said. Hong Sun, vice-president of the Korea Chamber of Business in Vietnam, said there are certain similarities between Vietnam today and South Korea in the 70s. The South Korean government was among some of the first to invest in and encourage the development of science and technology. "The keys to rapid growth lie in science and technology," he said. At the same time, the country must invest in strategic areas such as education, infrastructure and development policies, said economist Pham Chi Lan. She insisted those are key to unlocking the country's potential for scientific and technological advancement.

Vietnam's income per-capita in 2019 was US$2,800bn or US$3,000bn if the informal economy was included, according to the General Statistics Office of Vietnam, effectively putting the country in the low-middle income group. In order to become a high-income country by the year 2045, the country must meet its target of US$12,000bn income per-capita, Lan said. In other words, Vietnam would need to quadruple its current GDP in just a quarter of a century, a goal as ambitious as it is challenging. As the size of the economy grows, it will become increasingly difficult to maintain a high growth rate, said Lan. While it was feasible to achieve annual 7-8% GDP growth in the 2000s when Vietnam's economy was relatively small it will require a tremendous amount of effort to stay on that course as the country's GDP nearing the US$200bn mark. In addition, Vietnam must build a resilient economic model, especially in the context of a globalised world, and support the development of the private sector. (vietnamnet.vn)

Notable Corporate Events

PetroVietnam Power Nhon Trach 2 JSC (NT2 VN, HOSE) - Business results: NT2's 3Q20 revenue and gross profit fell 34% and 62.1% respectively, to VND1,153bn and VND67.9bn, a company report showed. The profit plunge was in place as the Nhon Trach 2 power plant stopped the machines for expansion at the first equivalent operating hours (EOH) of 75,000 in Sep 2020. (ndh.vn)
